On April 7, 2020, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) announced a technical conference “to discuss technical and market issues prompted by growing interest in projects that are comprised of more than one resource type at the same plant location (hybrid resources) . . . , focusing on a generation resource and an electric storage resource paired together as a hybrid resource.” FERC scheduled the technical conference for Thursday, July 23, 2020, and indicated that an agenda and announcement regarding whether in-person participation would be available would follow later. The panelist self-nomination form is here, and the general registration form is here.
